Foreword

The University of Edinburgh's Complaint Handling Procedure (CHP) reflects our commitment to valuing complaints. We seek to resolve dissatisfaction as close as possible to the point of service delivery and to conduct thorough, impartial and fair investigations of complaints so that, where appropriate, we can make evidence-based decisions on the facts of the case.

The procedure was first developed by the Scottish Public Services Ombudsman (SPSO), in collaboration with representatives of the Higher Education sector.

The Model Complaint Handling Procedures (MCHPs) were revised in 2019 by the SPSO in consultation with all sectors. This new edition includes a core text, which is consistent across all public services in Scotland, with some additional text and examples specific to this sector. As far as is possible SPSO has produced a standard approach to handling complaints across Scotland's public services. This procedure aims to help the sector 'get it right first time' with quicker, simpler and more streamlined complaints handling and responses by capable, well-trained staff.

All staff across the University must cover this procedure as part of their induction and must be given refresher training as required, to ensure they are confident in identifying complaints, empowered to resolve simple complaints on the spot, and familiar with how to apply this procedure (including recording complaints).

Complaints give us valuable information we can use to improve. Our Complaint Handling Procedure will enable us to address a complainant's dissatisfaction and may help us prevent the same problem from happening again. For our staff, a complaint provides a first-hand account of the complainant's views and experience, and can highlight problems we may otherwise miss. Handled well, complaints can give our students and members of the public a form of redress when things go wrong, and can also help us continuously improve our services.

Handling complaints early creates better relations with students and members of the public. Handling complaints close to the point of service delivery means we can deal with them locally and quickly, so they are less likely to escalate to the next stage of the procedure. Complaints that we do not handle swiftly can greatly add to our workload and are more costly to administer.

The Complaint Handling Procedure will help us do our job better, improve relationships and enhance public perception of the University. It will help us keep the student at the heart of the process, while enabling us to better understand how to improve our services by learning from complaints.

Structure of the Complaint Handling Procedure

1. This Complaint Handling Procedure (CHP) explains to staff how to handle complaints. The CHP consists of:
 - Overview and structure (part 1) – this document
 - When to use the procedure (part 2) – guidance on identifying what is and what is not a complaint, handling complex or unusual complaint circumstances, the interaction of complaints and other processes, and what to do if the CHP does not apply
 - Information for staff (part 3) – guidance to staff on handling a complaint through stages 1 and 2, and dealing with post-closure contact
 - Governance of the procedure (part 4) – staff roles and responsibilities and guidance on recording, reporting, publicising and learning from complaints
 - The guide for complainants (part 5) – information for students and members of the public on how we handle complaints
2. When using the CHP, please also refer to the 'SPSO Statement of Complaints Handling Principles' and good practice guidance on complaints handling from the SPSO. www.spsso.org.uk
3. The CHP is managed by the Office of Student Conduct, Complaints and Appeals (OSCCA) within Registry Services. Any queries about its operation should be referred to complaints@ed.ac.uk.

Overview of the CHP

4. Anyone can make a complaint, either verbally or in writing, including face-to-face, by phone, letter or email.
5. We will try to resolve complaints to the satisfaction of the complainant wherever this is possible. Where this is not possible, we will give the complainant a clear response to each of their points of complaint. We will always try to respond as quickly as we can (and on the spot where possible).
6. Our complaint handling procedure has two stages. We expect the majority of complaints will be handled at stage 1. If the complainant remains dissatisfied after stage 1, they can request that we look at it again, at stage 2. If the complaint is complex enough to require an investigation, we will put the complaint into stage 2 straight away and skip stage 1.

Stage 1: Frontline response	Stage 2: Investigation	Independent external review (SPSO or other)
For issues that are straightforward and simple, requiring little or no investigation 'On-the-spot' apology, explanation, or other action to put the matter right Complaint resolved or a response provided in five working days or less (unless there are exceptional circumstances) Complaints addressed by any member of staff, or alternatively referred to the appropriate point for frontline response Response normally face-to-face or by telephone (though sometimes we will need to put the decision in writing) We will tell the complainant how to escalate their complaint to stage 2	Where the complainant is not satisfied with the frontline response, or refuses to engage at the frontline, or where the complaint is complex, serious or 'high-risk' Complaint acknowledged within three working days We will contact the complainant to clarify the points of complaint and outcome sought (where these are already clear, we will confirm them in the acknowledgement) Complaint resolved or a definitive response provided within 20 working days following a thorough investigation of the points raised	Where the complainant is not satisfied with the stage 2 response from the service provider The SPSO will assess whether there is evidence of service failure or maladministration not identified by the service provider

7. For detailed guidance on the process, see within Part 3: Information for staff

Expected behaviours

8. We expect all staff to behave in a professional manner and treat complainants with courtesy, respect and dignity. We also ask those bringing a complaint to treat our staff with respect. We ask complainants to engage actively with the complaint handling process by:
 - telling us their key issues of concern and organising any supporting information they want to give us (we understand that some people will require support to do this)
 - working with us to agree the key points of complaint when an investigation is required; and
 - responding to reasonable requests for information.
9. We have a policy in place for when these standards are not met by complainants which is our Expected Behaviour Policy.
10. We recognise that people may act out of character in times of trouble or distress. Sometimes a health condition or a disability can affect how a person expresses themselves. The circumstances leading to a complaint may also result in the complainant acting in an unacceptable way.
11. People who have a history of challenging or inappropriate actions, or who have difficulty expressing themselves, may still have a legitimate grievance, and we will treat all complaints seriously. However, we also recognise that the actions of some complainants may result in unreasonable demands on time and resources or unacceptable behaviour towards our staff. We will, therefore, apply our policies and procedures to protect staff from unacceptable actions such as unreasonable persistence, threats or offensive behaviour from complainants. Where we decide to restrict access to a complainant under the terms of our policy, we have a procedure in place to communicate that decision, notify the complainant of their right of appeal, and review any decision to restrict contact with us.
12. If we decide to restrict a complainant's contact, we will be careful to follow the process set out in our Expected Behaviours Policy and to minimise any restrictions on the complainant's access to the complaints process. We will normally continue investigating a complaint even where contact restrictions are in place (for example, limiting communication to letter or to a named staff member). In some cases, it may be possible to continue investigating the complaint without contact from the complainant. Our policy allows us in limited circumstances to restrict access to the complaint process entirely. This would be as a last resort, should be as limited as possible (for a limited time, or about a limited set of subjects) and requires manager approval. Where access to the complaint process is restricted, we must signpost the complainant to the SPSO (see within Part 3: Signposting to the SPSO)
13. The SPSO has guidance on promoting positive behaviour and managing unacceptable actions.

Maintaining confidentiality and data protection

14. Confidentiality is important in complaints handling. This includes maintaining the complainant's confidentiality and confidentiality in relation to information about staff members, contractors or any third parties involved in the complaint.
15. This should not prevent us from being open and transparent, as far as possible, in how we handle complaints. This includes sharing as much information with the complainant (and, where appropriate, any affected staff members) as we can. When sharing information, we should be clear about why the information is being shared and our expectations on how the recipient will use the information.
16. We must always bear in mind legal requirements, for example data protection legislation, as well as internal policies on confidentiality.

What is a complaint?

1. The definition of a complaint to the University is: 'an expression of dissatisfaction about the University's action or lack of action, or about the standard of service provided by or on behalf of the University.'
2. For clarity, where an employee also receives a service from the University as a member of the public, they may complain about that service.
3. A complaint may relate to the following, but is not restricted to this list:
 - failure or refusal to provide a service
 - inadequate quality or standard of service, or an unreasonable delay in providing a service
 - the quality of facilities or learning resources
 - dissatisfaction with one of our policies or its impact on the individual (although it is recognised that policy is set at the discretion of the University)
 - failure to properly apply law, procedure or guidance when delivering services
 - failure to follow the appropriate administrative process
 - conduct, treatment by or attitude of a member of staff or contractor (except where there are arrangements in place for the contractor to handle the complaint themselves: see Complaints about contracted services); or
 - disagreement with a decision, (except where there is a statutory procedure for challenging that decision, such as an academic appeals process).
4. A complaint is not:
 - a request for information or an explanation of policy or practice
 - a response to an invitation to provide feedback through a formal mechanism such as a questionnaire or committee membership
 - a concern about student conduct (see Complaints and student conduct procedures)
 - a routine first-time request for a service (see Complaints and service requests)
 - a request for compensation only (see Complaints and compensation claims)
 - an insurance claim
 - issues that are in court or have already been heard by a court or a tribunal (see Complaints and legal action)
 - disagreement with a decision where there is a statutory procedure for challenging that decision (such as for freedom of information and subject access requests), or an established appeals process (such as an appeal about an academic decision on assessment or admission - see Complaints and appeals)
 - a request for information under the Data Protection or Freedom of Information (Scotland) Acts, or the Environmental Information Regulations
 - a grievance by a staff member or a grievance relating to employment or staff recruitment

- a concern raised internally by a member of staff, such as a whistleblowing concern, (which was not about a service they received).
 - concerns about services outwith the University's delegated responsibilities (e.g. conference and accommodation services to commercial clients)
 - a concern about a child or an adult's safety
 - an attempt to reopen a previously concluded complaint or to have a complaint reconsidered where we have already given our final decision
 - abuse or unsubstantiated allegations about the University or staff where such actions would be covered by our Expected Behaviour Policy or
 - a concern about the actions or service of a different organisation, where we have no involvement in the issue (except where the other organisation is delivering services on our behalf: see Complaints about contracted services).
5. We will not treat the issues above as complaints, and will instead direct people to use the appropriate procedures. Some situations can involve a combination of issues, where some are complaints and others are not, and each situation should be assessed on a case-by-case basis.
6. If a matter is not a complaint, or not suitable to be handled under the CHP, we will explain this to the complainant, and tell them what (if any) action we will take, and why. See What Registry Services will do if the CHP does not apply.

Who can make a complaint?

7. Anyone who receives, requests, or is affected by our services can make a complaint.
8. This includes, although is not limited to:
 - students during their time at the University (all referred to as 'students' through the remainder of this document);
 - members of the public, where they have a complaint about matters which are (or which were at the time the issue arose) the responsibility of the University; and
 - members of the public who are applying for admission to the University and whose complaint does not relate to academic judgement.
9. The basic processes for investigating complaints are the same for students, members of the public and applicants to the University – however appeals/complaints regarding a decision not to admit an applicant will be dealt with through admissions procedures.
10. We also accept complaints from the representative of a person who is dissatisfied with our service. See Complaints by \(or about\) a third party.

Supporting the complainant

11. Everyone has the right to equal access to our complaints procedure. It is important to recognise the barriers that some people may face complaining. These may be physical, sensory, communication or language barriers, but can also include their anxieties and concerns. Complainants may need support to overcome these barriers.
12. We have legal duties to make our complaints service accessible under equalities and mental health legislation. For example:
 - the Equality Act (Scotland) 2010 – this gives people with a protected characteristic the right to reasonable adjustments to access our services (such as large print or BSL translations of information); and
 - the Mental Health (Care and Treatment) (Scotland) Act 2003 – this gives anyone with a 'mental disorder' (including mental health issues, learning difficulties, dementia and autism) a right to access independent advocacy. This must be delivered by independent organisations that only provide advocacy. They help people to know and understand their rights, make informed decisions and have a voice.
13. In addition to our legal duties, we will seek to ensure that we support vulnerable groups in accessing our complaints procedure
14. These lists are not exhaustive, and we must always take into account our commitment and responsibilities to equality and accessibility.

How complaints may be made

15. Complaints may be made verbally or in writing, including face-to-face, by phone, letter or email.
16. Where a complaint is made verbally, we will make a record of the key points of complaint raised. Where a complaint is complex and likely to involve investigation at stage 2, we may ask the complainant to complete our complaint form or put the complaint in writing to ensure full details of the complaint are documented. However, there is no requirement for the person to complete a complaint form, and it is important that the completion of a complaint form does not present a barrier to people complaining.
17. Complaint issues may also appear on digital platforms (including social media).
18. Where a complaint issue is raised via a digital channel managed and controlled by the University (for example an official Twitter address or Facebook page), we will explain that we do not take complaints raised on social media, but we will tell the person how they can complain.
19. We may also become aware that an issue has been raised via a digital channel not controlled or managed by us (for example a YouTube video or post on a private Facebook group). In such cases we may respond, where we consider it appropriate, by telling the person how they can complain.
20. We must always be mindful of our data protection obligations when responding to issues online or in a public forum. See within Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.

Time limit for making complaints

21. The complainant must raise their complaint within six months of when they first knew of the problem, unless there are special circumstances for considering complaints beyond this time (for example, where a person was not able to complain due to serious illness or recent bereavement).
22. Where a complainant has received a stage 1 response, and wishes to escalate to stage 2, unless there are special circumstances they must request this either:
 - within six months of when they first knew of the problem; or
 - within two months of receiving their stage 1 response (if this is later).
23. We will apply these time limits with discretion, taking into account the seriousness of the issue, the availability of relevant records and staff involved, how long ago the events occurred, and the likelihood that an investigation will lead to a practical benefit for the complainant or useful learning for the University.
24. We will also take account of the time limit within which a member of the public can ask the SPSO to consider complaints (normally one year). The SPSO have discretion to waive this time limit in special circumstances (and may consider doing so in cases where we have waived our own time limit).

Particular circumstances

Complaints by (or about) a third party

25. Sometimes a complainant may be unable or reluctant to make a complaint on their own. We will accept complaints from third parties, which may include relatives, friends, advocates and advisers. Where a complaint is made on behalf of a complainant, we must ensure that the complainant has authorised the person to act on their behalf. It is good practice to ensure the complainant understands their personal information will be shared as part of the complaints handling process (particularly where this includes sensitive personal information). This can include complaints brought by parents on behalf of their child, if the child is considered to have capacity to make decisions for themselves.
26. If a complaint is submitted by a third party, we will request the third party to ask the complainant to write to us directly giving us their specific permission to communicate with the third party.
27. In certain circumstances, a person may raise a complaint involving another person's personal data, without receiving consent. The complaint should still be investigated where possible, but the investigation and response may be limited by considerations of confidentiality. The person who submitted the complaint should be made aware of these limitations and the effect this will have on the scope of the response.
28. See within Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.

Serious, high-risk or high-profile complaints

29. We will take particular care to identify complaints that might be considered serious, high-risk or high-profile, as these may require particular action or raise critical issues that need senior management's direct input. Serious, high-risk or high-profile complaints should normally be handled immediately at stage 2 (see within Part 3: Stage 2: Investigation).
30. We define potential high-risk or high-profile complaints as those that may:
 - involve a death or terminal illness
 - involve serious service failure, for example major delays in service provision or repeated failures to provide a service
 - generate significant and on-going press interest
 - pose a serious operational risk to the University; or
 - present issues of a highly sensitive nature.

Anonymous complaints

31. We value all complaints, including anonymous complaints, and will take action to consider them further wherever this is appropriate. Generally, we will consider anonymous complaints if there is enough information in the complaint to enable us to make further enquiries. Any decision not to pursue an anonymous complaint must be authorised by an appropriate manager

32. If we pursue an anonymous complaint further, we will record it as an anonymous complaint together with any learning from the complaint and action taken.
33. If an anonymous complainant makes serious allegations, these should be dealt with in a timely manner under relevant procedures. This may not be the complaint handling procedure and could instead be relevant child protection, adult protection or disciplinary procedures.

What if the person does not want to complain?

34. If someone has expressed dissatisfaction in line with our definition of a complaint but does not want to complain, we will explain that complaints offer us the opportunity to improve services where things have gone wrong. We will encourage them to submit their complaint and allow us to handle it through the CHP. This will ensure they are updated on the action taken and get a response to their complaint.
35. If the person insists they do not wish to complain, we are not required to progress the complaint under this procedure. However, we should record the complaint as an anonymous complaint (including minimal information about the complaint, without any identifying information) to enable us to track trends and themes in complaints. Where the complaint is serious, or there is evidence of a problem with our services, we should also look into the matter to remedy this (and record any outcome).

Complaints involving more than one area or organisation

36. If a complaint relates to the actions of two or more areas of the University, we will tell the complainant who will take the lead in dealing with the complaint, and explain that they will get only one response covering all issues raised. The nature of the complaint may also require parallel procedures to be initiated (such as academic appeal or disciplinary procedures). See Complaints and appeals.
37. If we receive a complaint about the service of another organisation or public service provider, but we have no involvement in the issue, we will advise the complainant to contact the appropriate organisation directly.
38. If a complaint relates to our service and the service of another organisation or public service provider, and we have a direct interest in the issue, we will handle the complaint about the University through the CHP. If we need to contact an outside body about the complaint, we will be mindful of data protection. See within Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.
39. Such complaints may include, for example:
 - a complaint made in relation to provision of third-party services, for example IT systems
 - a complaint made about a service that is contracted out, such as catering services; or
 - a complaint made to the University about a student loan where the dissatisfaction relates to the service we have provided and the service the student loan agency has provided.

Complaints about contracted services

40. Where we use a contractor to deliver a service on our behalf we recognise that we remain responsible and accountable for ensuring that the services provided meet the University's standard (including in relation to complaints). We will either do so by:
- ensuring the contractor complies with this procedure; or
 - ensuring the contractor has their own procedure in place, which fully meets the standards in this procedure. At the end of the investigation stage of any such complaints the contractor must ensure that the complainant is signposted to the SPSO.
41. We will confirm that service users are clearly informed of the process and understand how to complain. We will also ensure that there is appropriate provision for information sharing and governance oversight where required.
42. The University has discretion to investigate complaints about organisations contracted to deliver services on its behalf even where the procedure has normally been delegated.

Complaints about staff

43. Complaints about staff can be difficult to handle, as there may be a conflict of interest for the staff investigating the complaint. When serious complaints are raised against staff, we refer these for consideration through Human Resources (HR) procedures rather than through the CHP. We have strong governance arrangements in place that set out clear procedures for handling such complaints. Due to staff confidentiality, the information which may be provided to the complainant in such cases may be quite restricted. Students may also wish to refer to the Student Complaints relating to Staff Conduct Procedure
44. The complainant should be advised whether the complaint has been upheld or not, but is unlikely to be given much detail beyond that. As these cases are considered through HR procedures rather than through the CHP, the timescales applied to staff investigations are those specified by HR.

Complaints and other processes

45. Complaints can sometimes be confused (or overlap) with other processes, such as disciplinary or whistleblowing processes. Specific examples and guidance on how to handle these are below.

Complaints and appeals

46. In some cases, an issue may be raised as a complaint which should be considered under alternative arrangements (for example, an academic appeal or fitness to practise appeal), or vice versa. Complaints and appeals are handled under separate processes. It is not appropriate for the same issue to be considered under both procedures.

47. Where the complaint and appeal issues can be clearly distinguished, we will identify the points to be investigated as a complaint and progress those in line with this procedure. This will include confirming the points of complaint and outcomes sought. We will also identify and set out the issues of appeal.
48. In determining which process applies, we may need to clarify our approach with the complainant (for example, where the complainant is focussed solely on the appeal outcome they may not wish to pursue a complaint as well). However, we will not normally ask the complainant to resubmit issues they have already raised (for example, to reframe part of their appeal as a complaint).
49. We may also decide to complete consideration under one procedure before considering residual issues under another procedure (for example, we may delay consideration of any complaint until the academic appeal has been concluded, or vice versa).
50. In all cases, we will explain to the student which issues have been considered under which process, and signpost them to the appropriate independent review.

Complaints and student conduct procedures

A concern about the conduct of another student is not a complaint, and should be handled under the relevant procedure for student conduct; the Code of Student Conduct. However, the person may complain about how the University handled the situation and where the complaint is about our service, we will consider it under the CHP. Complaints and service requests

51. If someone asks the University to do something (for example, provide a service or deal with a problem), and this is the first time they have contacted us, this would normally be a routine service request and not a complaint.
52. Service requests can lead to complaints, if the request is not handled promptly or the person is then dissatisfied with how we provide the service.

Complaints and staff disciplinary or whistleblowing processes

53. If the issues raised in a complaint overlap with issues raised under a staff disciplinary or whistleblowing process, we still need to respond to the complaint.
54. Our response must be careful not to share confidential information (such as anything about the whistleblowing or disciplinary procedures, or outcomes for individual staff members). It should focus on whether the University failed to meet our expected standards and what we have done to improve things, in general terms.

55. Staff investigating such complaints will need to take extra care to ensure that:
- we comply with all requirements of the CHP in relation to the complaint (as well as meeting the requirements of the other processes)
 - all complaint issues are addressed (sometimes issues can get missed if they are not also relevant to the overlapping process); and
 - we keep records of the investigation that can be made available to the SPSO if required. This can be problematic when the other process is confidential, because SPSO will normally require documentation of any correspondence and interviews to show how conclusions were reached. We will need to bear this in mind when planning any elements of the investigation that might overlap (for example, if staff are interviewed for the purposes of both the complaint and a disciplinary procedure, they should not be assured that any evidence given will be confidential, as it may be made available to the SPSO).
56. The SPSO's report Making complaints work for everyone has more information on supporting staff who are the subject of complaints.

Complaints and compensation claims

57. Where someone is seeking financial compensation only, this is not a complaint. However, in some cases the person may want to complain about the matter leading to their financial claim, and they may seek additional outcomes, such as an apology or an explanation. Where appropriate, we may consider that matter as a complaint, but deal with the financial claim separately. It may be appropriate to extend the timeframes for responding to the complaint, to consider the financial claim first.

Complaints and legal action

58. Where a complainant says that legal action is being actively pursued, this is not a complaint.
59. Where a complainant indicates that they are thinking about legal action, but have not yet commenced this, they should be informed that if they take such action, they should notify complaints@ed.ac.uk and that the complaints process, in relation to the matters that will be considered through the legal process, will be closed. Any outstanding complaints must still be addressed through the CHP.
60. If an issue has been, or is being, considered by a court, we must not consider the same issue under the CHP.

What Registry Services will do if the CHP does not apply

Note: Registry Services are responsible for signposting complainants to the SPSO if a complaint is not being taken forward for any reason.

61. If the issue does not meet the definition of a complaint or if it is not appropriate to handle it under this procedure (for example, due to time limits), we will explain to the complainant why we have made this decision. We will also tell them what action (if any) we will take (for example, if another procedure applies), and advise them of their right to contact the SPSO if they disagree with our decision not to respond to the issue as a complaint.
62. Where a complainant continues to contact us about the same issue, we will explain that we have already given them our final response on the matter and signpost them to the SPSO. We may also consider whether we need to take action under our Expected Behaviours Policy.
63. The SPSO has issued a template letter for explaining when the CHP does not apply.

The complaint handling process

- Our Complaint Handling Procedure (CHP) aims to provide a quick, simple and streamlined process for responding to complaints early and locally by capable, well-trained staff. Where possible, we will resolve the complaint to the complainant's satisfaction. Where this is not possible, we will give the complainant a clear and reasoned response to their complaint.

Resolving the complaint

2. A complaint is resolved when both the University and the complainant agree what action (if any) will be taken to provide full and final resolution for the complainant, without making a decision about whether the complaint is upheld or not upheld.
3. We will try to resolve complaints wherever possible, although we accept this will not be possible in all cases.
4. A complaint may be resolved at any point in the complaint handling process, including during the investigation stage. It is particularly important to try to resolve complaints where there is an ongoing relationship with the complainant or where the complaint relates to an ongoing issue that may give rise to future complaints if the matter is not fully resolved.
5. It may be helpful to use alternative complaint resolution approaches when trying to resolve a complaint. See Alternative complaint resolution approaches.
6. Where a complaint is resolved, we do not normally need to continue looking into it or provide a response on all points of complaint. There must be a clear record of how the complaint was resolved, what action was agreed, and the complainant's agreement to this as a final outcome. In some cases it may still be appropriate to continue looking into the issue, for example where there is evidence of a wider problem or potential for useful learning. We will use our professional judgment in deciding whether it is appropriate to continue looking into a complaint that is resolved.
7. In all cases, we must record the complaint outcome (resolved) and any action taken, and signpost the complainant to stage 2 (for stage 1 complaints) or to the SPSO as usual (see Signposting to the SPSO).
8. If the complainant and the University are not able to agree a resolution, we must follow this CHP to provide a clear and reasoned response to each of the issues raised.

What to do when you receive a complaint

9. Members of staff receiving a complaint should consider four key questions. This will help them to either respond to the complaint quickly (at stage 1) or determine whether the complaint is more suitable for stage 2.

What exactly is the complaint (or complaints)?

10. It is important to be clear exactly what the complaint is about. We may need to ask the complainant for more information and probe further to get a full understanding.
11. We will need to decide whether the issue can be defined as a complaint and whether there are circumstances that may limit our ability to respond to the complaint (such as the time limit for making complaints, confidentiality, anonymity or the need for consent). We should also consider whether the complaint is serious, high-risk or high-profile.
12. If the matter is not suitable for handling as a complaint, we will refer the matter to OSCCA where the complaints management team will explain this to the complainant (and signpost them to SPSO). There is detailed guidance on this step in Part 2: When to use this procedure.
13. In most cases, this step will be straightforward. If it is not, the complaint may need to be referred immediately to stage 2 (see Stage 2: Investigation) by contacting complaints@ed.ac.uk.

What does the complainant want to achieve by complaining?

14. At the outset, we will clarify the outcome the complainant wants. Of course, the complainant may not be clear about this, and we may need to probe further to find out what they expect, and whether they can be satisfied.

Can I achieve this, or explain why not?

15. If a staff member handling a complaint can achieve the expected outcome, for example by providing an on-the-spot apology, or explain why they cannot achieve it, they should do so.
16. The complainant may expect more than we can provide. If so, we will tell them as soon as possible.
17. Complaints which can be resolved or responded to quickly should be managed at stage 1 (see Stage 1: Frontline response).

If I cannot respond, who can help?

18. If the complaint is simple and straightforward but the staff member receiving the complaint cannot deal with it because, for example, they are unfamiliar with the issues or area of service involved, they should pass the complaint to someone who can respond quickly.
19. If it is not a simple and straightforward complaint that can realistically be closed within five working days (or ten, if an extension is appropriate), it should be referred immediately to stage 2. If the complainant refuses to engage at stage 1, insisting that they want their complaint investigated, it should be handled immediately at stage 2. See Stage 2: Investigation. The complaints management team within OSCCA have overall responsibility for all complaints and can be contacted at complaints@ed.ac.uk.

Stage 1: Frontline response (managed at local level)

20. Frontline response aims to respond quickly (within five working days) to straightforward complaints that require little or no investigation.
21. Any member of staff may deal with complaints at this stage (including the staff member complained about, for example with an explanation or apology). The main principle is to respond to complaints at the earliest opportunity and as close to the point of service delivery as possible.
22. We may respond to the complaint by providing an on-the-spot apology where appropriate, or explaining why the issue occurred and, where possible, what will be done to stop this happening again. We may also explain that, as an organisation that values complaints, we may use the information given when we review service standards in the future. If we consider an apology is appropriate, we may wish to follow the SPSO guidance on apology.
23. Complaints which are not suitable for frontline response should be identified early, and transferred for stage 2: Investigation by contacting complaints@ed.ac.uk.

Notifying staff members involved

24. If the complaint is about the actions of another staff member, the complaint should be shared with that staff member, where possible, before responding (although this should not prevent us responding to the complaint quickly, for example where it is clear that an apology is warranted).

Timelines

25. Frontline response must be completed within five working days, although in practice we would often expect to respond to the complaint much sooner. 'Day one' is always the date of receipt of the complaint (or the next working day if the complaint is received on a weekend or public holiday). If a complaint is received after 5pm, the University will treat "Day one" as the next working day.

Extension to the timeline

26. In exceptional circumstances, a short extension of time may be necessary due to unforeseen circumstances (such as the availability of a key staff member). Extensions must be agreed with an appropriate manager. We will tell the complainant about the reasons for the extension, and when they can expect a response. The maximum extension that can be granted is five working days (that is, no more than ten working days in total from the date of receipt).
27. If a complaint will take more than five working days to look into, it should be handled at stage 2 immediately. The only exception to this is where the complaint is simple and could normally be handled within five working days, but it is not possible to begin immediately (for example, due to the absence of a key staff member). In such cases, the complaint may still be handled at stage 1 if it is clear that it can be handled within the extended timeframe of up to ten working days.
28. If a complaint has not been closed within ten working days, it should be escalated to stage 2 for a final response by contacting complaints@ed.ac.uk.

29. Appendix 1 provides further information on timelines.

Closing the complaint at the frontline response stage

30. If we convey the decision face-to-face or on the telephone, we are not required to write to the complainant as well (although we may choose to). We must:
- tell the complainant the outcome of the complaint (whether it is resolved, upheld, partially upheld or not upheld)
 - explain the reasons for our decision (or the agreed action taken to resolve the complaint; see Resolving the complaint); and
 - explain that the complainant can escalate the complaint to stage 2 if they remain dissatisfied and how to do.
31. We will keep a full and accurate record of the decision given to the complainant. If we are not able to contact the complainant by phone or speak to them in person, we will provide a written response to the complaint where an email or postal address is provided, covering the points above.
32. If the complaint is about the actions of a particular staff member/s, we will share with the staff member/s any part of the complaint response which relates to them, (unless there are compelling reasons not to). Where a complaint raises serious matters which could lead to action under staff disciplinary or capability procedures, the complaint will normally be transferred to Human Resources (HR) for investigation through HR procedures, rather than through the CHP. In such cases, the amount of information which can be shared with the complainant on conclusion of the HR investigation is likely to be limited for reasons of confidentiality.
33. The complaint should then be closed and the complaints system updated accordingly.
34. At the earliest opportunity after the closure of the complaint, the staff member handling the complaint should consider whether any learning has been identified. See within Part 4: Learning from complaints.

Stage 2: Investigation (managed centrally by OSCCA)

35. Not all complaints are suitable for frontline response and not all complaints will be satisfactorily addressed at that stage. Stage 2 is appropriate where:
- the complainant is dissatisfied with the frontline response or refuses to engage at the frontline stage, insisting they wish their complaint to be investigated. Unless exceptional circumstances apply, the complainant must escalate the complaint within six months of when they first knew of the problem or within two months of the stage 1 response, whichever is later (see within Part 2: Time limits for making a complaint)
 - the complaint is not simple and straightforward (for example where the complainant has raised a number of issues, or where information from several sources is needed before we can establish what happened and/or what should have happened); or
 - the complaint relates to serious, high-risk or high-profile issues (see within Part 2: Serious, high-risk or high-profile complaints).
36. An investigation aims to explore the complaint in more depth and establish all the relevant facts. The aim is to resolve the complaint where possible, or to give the complainant a full, objective and proportionate response that represents our final position. Wherever possible, complaints should be investigated by someone not involved in the complaint (for example, a line manager or a manager from a different area).
37. Details of the complaint must be recorded on the complaints system. Where appropriate, this will be done as a continuation of frontline response. If the investigation stage follows a frontline response, the officer responsible for the investigation should have access to all case notes and associated information.
38. The beginning of stage 2 is a good time to consider whether complaint resolution approaches other than investigation may be helpful (see Alternative complaint resolution approaches).

Acknowledging the complaint

39. Complaints must be acknowledged within three working days of receipt at stage 2.
40. We must issue the acknowledgement in a format which is accessible to the complainant, taking into account their preferred method of contact.
41. Where the points of complaint and expected outcomes are clear from the complaint, we must set these out in the acknowledgement and ask the complainant to get in touch with us immediately if they disagree. See Agreeing the points of complaint and outcome sought.
42. Where the points of complaint and expected outcomes are not clear, we must tell the complainant we will contact them to discuss this.

Agreeing the points of complaint and outcome sought

43. It is important to be clear from the start of stage 2 about the points of complaint to be investigated and what outcome the complainant is seeking. We may also need to manage the complainant's expectations about the scope of our investigation.

44. Where the points of complaint and outcome sought are clear, we can confirm our understanding of these with the complainant when acknowledging the complaint (see Acknowledging the complaint).
45. Where the points of complaint and outcome sought are not clear, we must contact the complainant to confirm these. We will normally need to speak to the complainant (by phone or face-to-face) to do this effectively. In some cases it may be possible to clarify complaints in writing. The key point is that we need to be sure we and the complainant have a shared understanding of the complaint. When contacting the complainant we will be respectful of their stated preferred method of contact. We should keep a clear record of any discussion with the complainant.
46. In all cases, we must have a clear shared understanding of:

- What are the points of complaint to be investigated?

While the complaint may appear to be clear, agreeing the points of complaint at the outset ensures there is a shared understanding and avoids the complaint changing or confusion arising at a later stage. The points of complaint should be specific enough to direct the investigation, but broad enough to include any multiple and specific points of concern about the same issue.

We will make every effort to agree the points of complaint with the complainant (alternative complaint resolution approaches may be helpful at this stage). In very rare cases, it may not be possible to agree the points of complaint (for example, if the complainant insists on an unreasonably large number of complaints being separately investigated, or on framing their complaint in an abusive way). We will manage any such cases in accordance with our Expected Behaviour Policy, bearing in mind that we should continue to investigate the complaint (as we understand it) wherever possible.

- Is there anything we can't consider under the CHP?

We must explain if there are any points that are not suitable for handling under the CHP (see within Part 2: What to do if the CHP does not apply).

- What outcome does the complainant want to achieve?

Asking what outcome the complainant is seeking helps direct the investigation and enables us to focus on resolving the complaint where possible.

- Are the complainant's expectations realistic and achievable?

It may be that the complainant expects more than we can provide, or has unrealistic expectations about the scope of the investigation. If so, we should make this clear to the complainant as soon as possible.

Notifying staff members involved

47. If the complaint is about the actions of a particular staff member/s, we will notify the staff member/s involved (including where a staff member is not named, but can be identified from the complaint). We will:
- share the complaint information with the staff member/s (unless there are compelling reasons not to)
 - advise them how the complaint will be handled, how they will be kept updated and how we will share the complaint response with them
 - discuss their willingness to engage with alternative complaint resolution approaches (where applicable); and
 - signpost the staff member/s to a contact person who can provide support and information on what to expect from the complaint process (this must not be the person investigating or signing off the complaint response).
48. If it is likely that internal staff disciplinary or capability processes may be involved, we will refer the complaint to HR for investigation through HR processes rather than through the CHP. See within Part 2: Complaints and disciplinary or whistleblowing processes.

Investigating the complaint

49. It is important to plan the investigation before beginning. The staff member investigating the complaint should consider what information they have and what they need about:
- what happened? (this could include, for example, records of phone calls or meetings, recollections of staff members or internal emails)
 - what should have happened? (this should include any relevant policies or procedures that apply); and
 - is there a difference between what happened and what should have happened, and is the University responsible?
50. In some cases, information may not be readily available. We will balance the need for the information against the resources required to obtain it, taking into account the seriousness of the issue (for example, it may be appropriate to contact a former employee, if possible, where they hold key information about a serious complaint).
51. If we need to share information within or outwith the University, we will be mindful of our obligations under data protection legislation. See within Part 1: Maintaining confidentiality and data protection.
52. The SPSO has resources for conducting investigations, including:
- Investigation plan template
 - Decision-making tool for complaint investigators

Alternative complaint resolution approaches

53. Some complex complaints, or complaints where complainants and other interested parties have become entrenched in their position, may require a different approach to resolving the matter. Where we think it is appropriate, we may use alternative complaint resolution approaches such as complaint resolution discussions, mediation or conciliation to try to resolve the matter and to reduce the risk of the complaint escalating further. If mediation is attempted, a suitably trained and qualified mediator should be used. Alternative complaint resolution approaches may help both parties to understand what has caused the complaint, and so are more likely to lead to mutually satisfactory solutions.
54. Alternative complaint resolution approaches may be used to resolve the complaint entirely, or to support one part of the process, such as understanding the complaint, or exploring the complainant's desired outcome.
55. The SPSO has guidance on alternative complaint resolution approaches.
56. If the University and the complainant (and any staff members involved) agree to using alternative complaint resolution approaches, it is likely that an extension to the timeline will need to be agreed. This should not discourage the use of these approaches.

Meeting with the complainant during the investigation

57. To investigate the complaint effectively, it may be necessary to arrange a meeting with the complainant. Where a meeting takes place, we will always be mindful of the requirement to investigate complaints (including holding any meetings) within 20 working days wherever possible. Where there are difficulties arranging a meeting, this may provide grounds for extending the timeframe.
58. As a matter of good practice, a written record of the meeting should be completed and provided to the complainant. Alternatively, and by agreement with the person making the complaint, we may provide a record of the meeting in another format. We will notify the person making the complaint of the timescale within which we expect to provide the record of the meeting.

Timelines

59. The following deadlines are appropriate to cases at the investigation stage (counting day one as the day of receipt, or the next working day if the complaint was received on a weekend or public holiday).
 - Complaints must be acknowledged within three working days
 - a full response to the complaint should be provided as soon as possible but not later than 20 working days from the time the complaint was received for investigation.

Extension to the timeline

60. Not all investigations will be able to meet this deadline. For example, some complaints are so complex that they require careful consideration and detailed investigation beyond the 20 working day timeline. It is important to be realistic and clear with the complainant about timeframes, and to advise them early if we think it will not be possible to meet the 20 day timeframe, and why. We should bear in mind that extended delays may have a detrimental effect on the complainant.

61. Any extension must be approved by an appropriate manager. We will keep the complainant and any member/s of staff complained about updated on the reason for the delay and give them a revised timescale for completion. We will contact the complainant and any member/s of staff complained about at least once every 20 working days to update them on the progress of the investigation.
62. The reasons for an extension might include the following:
- essential accounts or statements, crucial to establishing the circumstances of the case, are needed from staff or others but the person is not available because of long-term sickness or leave
 - we cannot obtain further essential information within normal timescales; or
 - the complainant has agreed to alternative complaint resolution approaches as a potential route for resolution.

These are only a few examples, and we will judge the matter in relation to each complaint. However, an extension would be the exception.

63. Appendix 1 provides further information on timelines.

Closing the complaint at the investigation stage

64. The response to the complaint should be in writing (or by the complainant's preferred method of contact) and must be signed off by a manager within OSCCA who is empowered to provide the final response on behalf of the University
65. We will tell the complainant the outcome of the complaint (whether it is resolved, upheld, partially upheld or not upheld). The quality of the complaint response is very important and in terms of good practice should:
- be clear and easy to understand, written in a way that is person-centred and non-confrontational
 - avoid technical terms, but where these must be used, an explanation of the term should be provided
 - address all the issues raised and demonstrate that each element has been fully and fairly investigated
 - include an apology where things have gone wrong (this is different to an expression of empathy: see the SPSO's guidance on apology)
 - highlight any area of disagreement and explain why no further action can be taken
 - indicate that a named member of staff is available to clarify any aspect of the letter; and
 - indicate that if the complainant is not satisfied with the outcome of the University's process, they may seek a review by the SPSO (see Signposting to the SPSO).
66. Where a complaint has been resolved, the response does not need to provide a decision on all points of complaint, but should instead confirm the resolution agreed. See Resolving the complaint.

67. If the complaint is about the actions of a particular staff member/s, we will share with the staff member/s any part of the complaint response which relates to them (unless there are compelling reasons not to).
68. We will record the decision, and details of how it was communicated to the complainant, on the complaints system.
69. The SPSO has guidance on responding to a complaint:
- Template decision letter
 - Apology guidance
70. At the earliest opportunity after the closure of the complaint, the staff member handling the complaint should consider whether any learning has been identified. See within Part 4: Learning from complaints.

Signposting to the SPSO

71. Once the investigation stage has been completed through OSCCA, the complainant has the right to approach the SPSO if they remain dissatisfied. We must make clear to the complainant:
- their right to ask the SPSO to consider the complaint
 - the time limit for doing so; and
 - how to contact the SPSO.
72. The SPSO considers complaints from people who remain dissatisfied at the conclusion of our complaint procedure. The SPSO looks at issues such as service failure and maladministration (administrative fault), and the way we have handled the complaint. There are some subject areas that are outwith the SPSO's jurisdiction, but it is the SPSO's role to determine whether an individual complaint is one that they can consider (and to what extent). All investigation responses must signpost to the SPSO.
73. The SPSO recommends that we use the wording below to inform complainants of their right to ask the SPSO to consider the complaint. This information must be included on the University's final response to the complaint.

Information about the SPSO

The Scottish Public Services Ombudsman (SPSO) is the final stage for complaints about public services in Scotland. This includes complaints about universities. The SPSO is an independent organisation that investigates complaints. It is not an advocacy or support service (but there are other organisations who can help you with advocacy or support).

If you remain dissatisfied when you have had a final response from the University, you can ask the SPSO to look at your complaint. You can ask the SPSO to look at your complaint if:

- you have gone all the way through the University's Complaint Handling Procedure
- it is less than 12 months after you became aware of the matter you want to complain about, and

- the matter has not been (and is not being) considered in court.

The SPSO will ask you to complete a complaint form and provide a copy of this letter (our final response to your complaint). You can do this online at www.spsso.org.uk/complain or call them on Freephone 0800 377 7330.

You may wish to get independent support or advocacy to help you progress your complaint. Organisations who may be able to assist you are:

- Citizens Advice Scotland
- Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance

The SPSO's contact details are:

Post-closure contact

74. If a complainant contacts us for clarification when they have received our final response, we may have further discussion with the complainant to clarify our response and answer their questions. However, if the complainant is dissatisfied with our response or does not accept our findings, we will explain that we have already given them our final response on the matter and signpost them to the SPSO.

Appendix 1 - Timelines

General

1. References to timelines throughout the CHP relate to working days. We do not count non-working days, for example weekends, public holidays and days of industrial action where our service has been interrupted.

Timelines at frontline response (stage 1)

2. We will aim to achieve frontline response within five working days. The date of receipt is day one, and the response should be provided (or the complaint escalated) on day five, at the latest.
3. If we have extended the timeline at the frontline response stage in line with the CHP, the response should be provided (or the complaint escalated) on day ten, at the latest.

Transferring cases from frontline response to investigation

4. If the complainant wants to escalate the complaint to the investigation stage, the case must be passed for investigation without delay by contacting complaints@ed.ac.uk. In practice this will mean on the same day that the complainant is told this will happen.

Timelines at investigation (stage 2)

5. For complaints at the investigation stage, day one is:
 - the day the case is transferred from the frontline stage to the investigation stage
 - the day the complainant asks for an investigation or expresses dissatisfaction after a decision at the frontline response stage; or
 - the date we receive the complaint, if it is handled immediately at stage 2.
6. We must acknowledge the complaint within three working days of receipt at stage 2 i.e. by day three.
7. We should respond in full to the complaint by day 20, at the latest. We have 20 working days to investigate the complaint, regardless of any time taken to consider it at the frontline response stage.
8. Exceptionally, we may need longer than the 20 working day limit for a full response. If so, we will explain the reasons to the complainant, and update them (and any staff involved) at least once every 20 working days.

Frequently asked questions

What happens if an extension is granted at stage 1, but then the complaint is escalated?

9. The extension at stage 1 does not affect the timeframes at stage 2. The stage 2 timeframes apply from the day the complaint was escalated (we have 20 working days from this date, unless an extension is granted).

What happens if we cannot meet an extended timeframe?

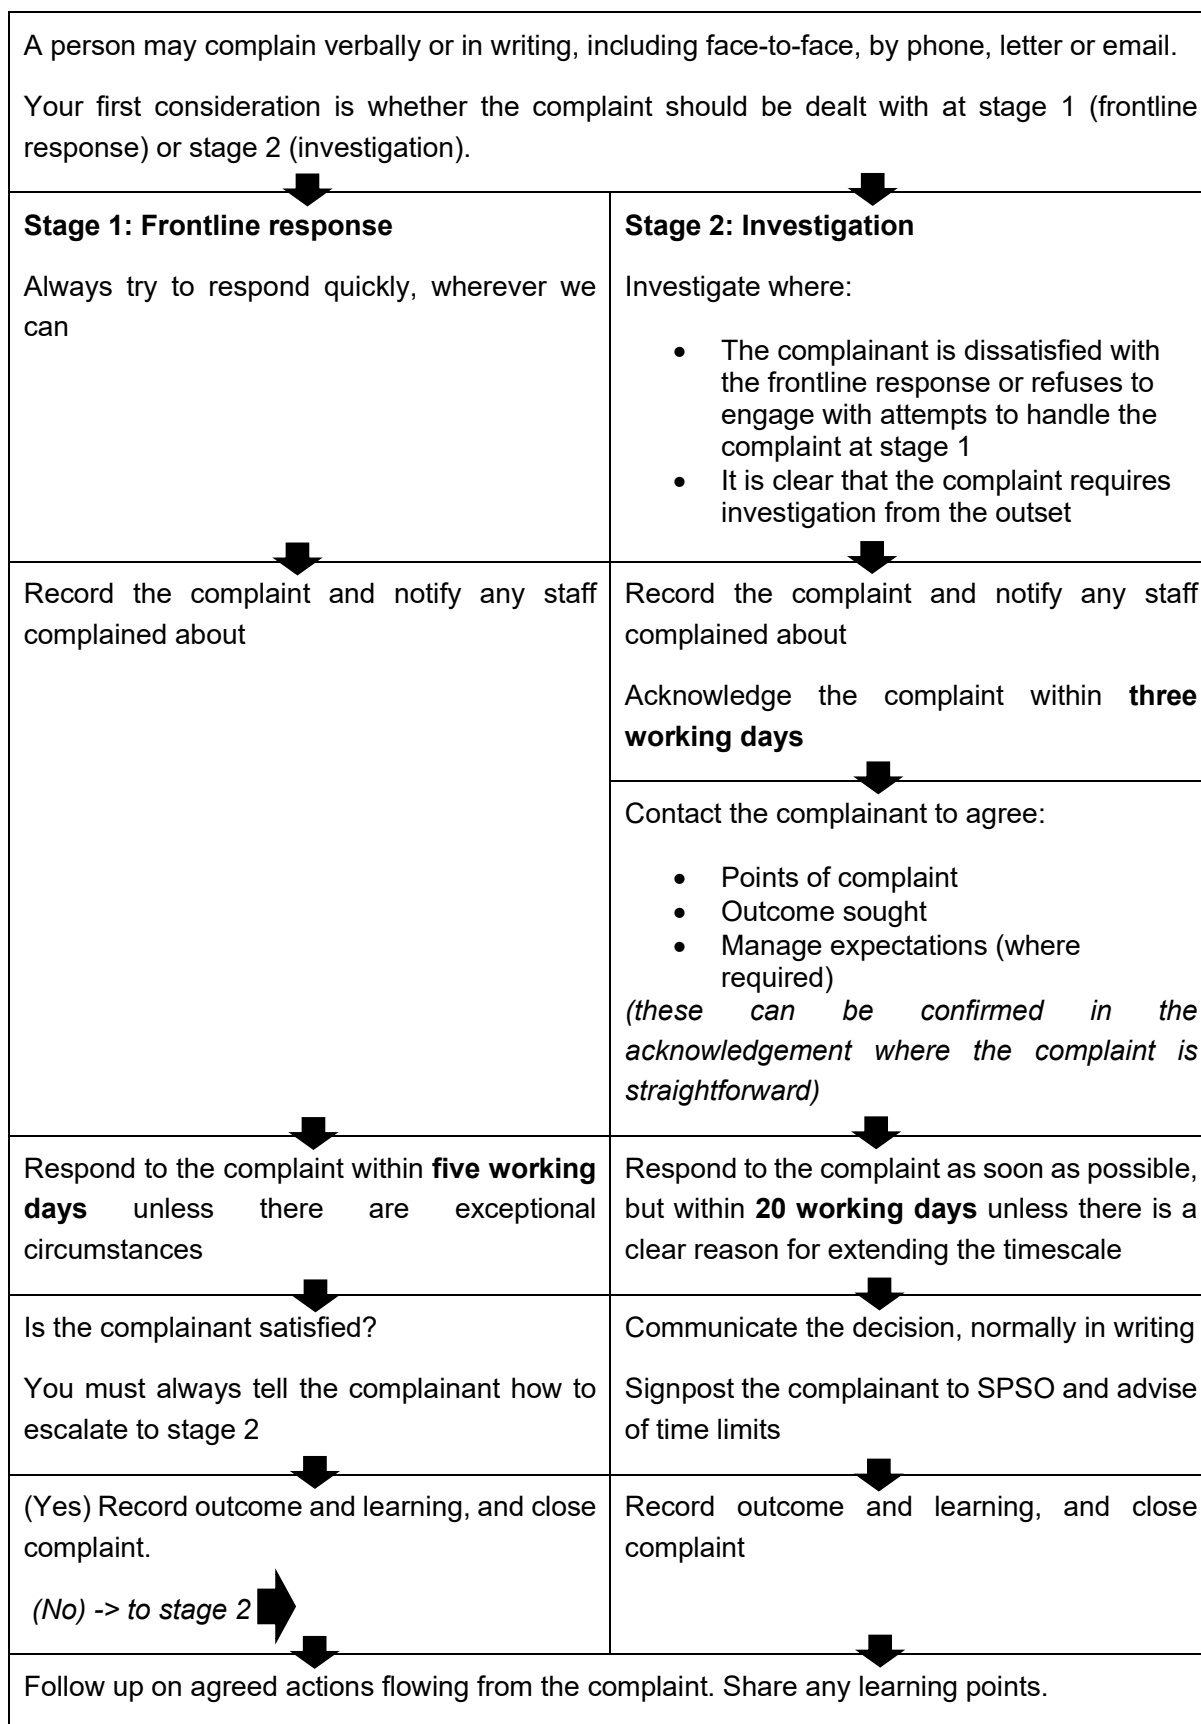

10. If we cannot meet the extended timeframe at stage 1, the complaint should be escalated to stage 2. The maximum timeframe allowed for a stage 1 response is ten working days.

11. If we cannot meet the extended timeframe at stage 2, a further extension may be approved by an appropriate manager if there are clear reasons for this. This should only occur in exceptional circumstances (the original extension should allow sufficient time to realistically investigate and respond to the complaint). Where a further extension is agreed, we should explain the situation to the complainant and give them a revised timeframe for completion. We must update the complainant and any staff involved in the investigation at least once every 20 working days.

What happens when a complainant asks for stage 2 consideration a long time after receiving a frontline response?

12. Unless exceptional circumstances exist, complainants should bring a stage 2 complaint within six months of learning about the problem, or within two months of receiving the stage 1 response (whichever is latest). See within Part 2: Time limits for making a complaint.

(Part 4 – Governance)

Contents

Roles and responsibilities	3
Recording, reporting, learning from and publicising complaints.....	6
Recording complaints	6
Learning from complaints	5
Reporting of complaints	7
Publicising complaints information	6

Roles and responsibilities

1. All staff will be aware of:
 - the Complaint Handling Procedure (CHP)
 - how to handle and record complaints at the frontline response stage
 - who they can refer a complaint to, in case they are not able to handle the matter
 - the need to try and resolve complaints early and as close to the point of service delivery as possible; and
 - their clear authority to attempt to resolve any complaints they may be called upon to deal with.
2. Training on this procedure will be part of the induction process for all new staff. Refresher training will be provided for current staff on a regular basis.
3. Senior management will ensure that:
 - The University's final position on a complaint investigation is signed off by an appropriate manager or officer in order to provide assurance that this is the definitive response of the University and that the complainant's concerns have been taken seriously
 - it maintains overall responsibility and accountability for the management and governance of complaints handling (including complaints about contracted services)
 - it has an active role in, and understanding of, the CHP (although not necessarily involved in the decision-making process of complaint handling)
 - mechanisms are in place to ensure a consistent approach to the way complaints handling information is managed, monitored, reviewed and reported at all levels in the University; and
 - complaints information is used to improve services, and this is evident from regular publications.
4. Principal: The Principal provides leadership and direction in ways that guide and enable us to perform effectively across all services. This includes ensuring that there is an effective Complaint Handling Procedure, with a robust investigation process that demonstrates how we learn from the complaints we receive. The Principal may take a personal interest in all or some complaints, or may delegate responsibility for the CHP to senior staff. Regular management reports assure the Principal of the quality of complaints performance.
5. The Principal is also responsible for ensuring that there are governance and accountability arrangements in place in relation to complaints about contractors. This includes:
 - ensuring performance monitoring for complaints is a feature of the service/management agreements between the University and contractors
 - setting clear objectives in relation to this complaint procedure and putting appropriate monitoring systems in place to provide the University with an overview of how the contractor is meeting its objectives

6. The Office of Student Conduct, Complaints and Appeals (OSCCA): The office that manages and investigates Stage 2 complaints (or complex Stage 1 complaints if appropriate), issues completion of procedures letters and provides guidance to the wider University on the CHP.
7. The Head of OSCCA: Involved in overview of complaint case management and operational escalation point for matters under CHP; including governance or expected behaviour concerns. of the Office of
8. OSCCA Policy Officers/Complaint investigators: These staff are responsible and accountable for the management of the investigation or review of complaint submission. They may identify matters that fall within the CHP and provide final outcomes. They can be involved in the investigation which may include preparing a comprehensive written report, including details of any procedural changes in service delivery and identifying wider opportunities for learning across the University.
9. Staff in Schools, Colleges and Support Services:

The Head of School / College / Professional Service is accountable for:

- Leadership on complaint handling within their area, including delegating responsibility for management of complaint handling within their area where appropriate;
- Identifying area contacts and ensuring the record of contact details for the named area contact remains current, informing the central Complaints Team of any changes without delay, including any cover arrangements for absences;
- Frontline (stage 1) complaint responses within their area, based on information provided ensuring compliance with SPSO requirements regarding extensions and response timescales;
- Ensuring complaints handling training engagement in their area;
- Oversight and quality of frontline complaints performance in their area, including regular review of complaints performance reports and monitoring of action taken in response to complaints in their area ('closing the loop'), for example in College meetings;
- Ensuring accurate record keeping in relation to local complaint case files, in accordance with the published retention schedule. The case file should hold details of any actions taken, and this documentation should be readily available to the central Complaints team in that event that a Stage 2 investigation is requested.

The Area Contact is responsible for:

- Maintaining a record of complaint handling in their area and ensuring that staff in their area are aware of how to record complaint data;
- Maintaining their knowledge of the CHP and acting as a point of advice and guidance on complaint handling for their area;
- Attending and promoting relevant CHP training opportunities;
- Acting as the key contact for their area to the central Complaints team;

- Compiling and submitting quarterly complaints data for their area to the central Complaints team;
- Providing the Head of School / College / Professional Service with complaints performance data;
- Ensuring they remain informed of complaint handling in their area via frontline complaint data being reported to them.

Designated staff member: For each frontline complaint, an appropriate member of staff will be designated by the Head of School / College / Professional Service or delegate as responsible for responding to the complaint. The name of the designated staff member is recorded in the Area log as part of quarterly complaints recording.

The designated staff member is responsible for:

- Providing a frontline response to the complaint, including appropriate signposting to Stage 2;
- Identifying any actions or lessons learned in response to the complaint;
- Ensuring that any actions or lessons learned are completed ('closing the loop');
- Recording the complaint information as directed by the local area contact.

10. Human Resources: HR is responsible for ensuring all new staff receive training on the CHP as part of the induction process, and that refresher training is provided for current staff on a regular basis.
11. The University's SPSO liaison contact: The Complaints team within OSCCA is the University liaison contact and are responsible for providing complaints information in an orderly, structured way within requested timescales, providing comments on factual accuracy on our behalf in response to SPSO reports, and confirming and verifying that recommendations have been implemented.

Recording, reporting, learning from and publicising complaints

12. Complaints provide valuable feedback. One of the aims of the CHP is to identify opportunities to improve services across the University. By recording and analysing complaints data, we can identify and address the causes of complaints and, where appropriate, identify training opportunities and introduce service improvements.
13. We also have arrangements in place to ensure complaints about contractors are recorded, reported on and publicised in line with this CHP.

Recording complaints

14. It is important to record suitable data to enable us to fully investigate and respond to the complaint, as well as using our complaint information to track themes and trends. As a minimum, we should record:
 - the complainant's name and contact details
 - the date the complaint was received
 - the nature of the complaint
 - the area the complaint refers to
 - staff member responsible for handling the complaint
 - action taken and outcome at frontline response stage
 - date the complaint was closed at the frontline response stage
 - date the investigation stage was initiated (if applicable)
 - action taken and outcome at investigation stage (if applicable)
 - date the complaint was closed at the investigation stage (if applicable)
 - the underlying cause of the complaint and any remedial action taken
 - the outcome of the SPSO's investigation, where applicable.
15. If the complainant does not want to provide their information, we will reassure them that it will be managed appropriately, and record what we can.
16. Individual complaint files will be stored in line with our document retention policy.

Learning from complaints

17. We must have clear systems in place to act on issues identified in complaints. As a minimum, we must:
 - seek to identify the root cause of complaints
 - take action to reduce the risk of recurrence; and
 - systematically review complaints performance reports to improve service delivery.

18. Learning may be identified from individual complaints (regardless of whether the complaint is upheld or not) and from analysis of complaints data.
19. Where we have identified the need for service improvement in response to an individual complaint, we will take appropriate action. We will designate an appropriate staff member to take the matter forward and ensure that action is taken. We will set a target date by which the action should be taken, monitor completion of the action and if appropriate monitor ongoing performance in the area. Learning points should be shared with relevant staff.
20. SPSO has guidance on Learning from complaints.
21. Senior management will review the information reported on complaints regularly to ensure that any trends or wider issues which may not be obvious from individual complaints are quickly identified and addressed. Where we identify the need for improvement, we will take appropriate action (as set out above). Where appropriate, performance in the area should be monitored to ensure that the issue has been resolved.

Reporting of complaints

22. We have a process for the internal reporting of complaints information, including analysis of complaint trends. Regularly reporting the analysis of complaints information helps to inform management of where services need to improve.
23. We will report at least quarterly to senior management and at least annually to the governing body on:
 - performance statistics, in line with the complaints performance indicators published by SPSO
 - analysis of the trends and outcomes of complaints (this should include highlighting where there are areas where few or no complaints are received, which may indicate either good practice or that there are barriers to complaining in that area).

Publicising complaints information

24. We publish on a quarterly basis information on complaints outcomes and actions taken to improve services.
25. This demonstrates the improvements resulting from complaints and shows that complaints can help to improve our services. It also helps ensure transparency in our complaint handling service and will help to show that we value complaints.

26. We will publish an annual complaints performance report on our website in line with SPSO requirements, and provide this to the SPSO on request. This summarises and builds on the quarterly reports we have produced about our services. It includes:
- performance statistics, in line with the complaints performance indicators published by the SPSO; and
 - complaint trends and the actions that have been or will be taken to improve services as a result.
27. These reports must be easily accessible to members of the public and available in alternative formats as requested.
